BRANDING AND MARKETING
COLLEAGUES,

Today, companies must communicate their brand promise using a variety of channels to sustain growth in a highly competitive marketplace. To succeed, you must invest wisely, integrate technology into your brand strategy, and live the brand promise with all your stakeholders.

At the Advanced Learning Institute's Corporate Brand Management, Communication and Social Media Conference and Workshops taking place at DePaul University, Chicago, May 5-7, 2014, you will explore the latest issues, trends, and opportunities that will position your organization, products, and services for the future.

You will hear practical advice and learn best practice strategies for:

- Growing your brand relationships in the digital era, unlocking the potential of your organization
- Reshaping perceptions through a brand strategy
- Adding value to your brands
- Building employee commitment with the brand
- Delivering the brand promise
- And, overcoming competitive barriers in the marketplace to shape your brands at the speed of change and organizing for brand building

Through best practice examples from a wide range of leading organizations, you will learn the latest trends and innovations in brand management, communication and social media brand engagement.

We developed this conference based on comments from past events. The sessions will challenge your beliefs, test your abilities and assist in your professional development. Register today by calling the conference hotline at 888-362-7400 or 773-695-9400.

I look forward to welcoming you to DePaul University in Chicago this May!

Workshop A

STRATEGIC BRAND DEVELOPMENT
Developing A Comprehensive Brand Communication Strategy to Build Your Brand Relationships with Customers
8:30 am–10:30 am

Building strong brands is essential to organizational growth and survival. As the world continues to shrink with technology, brands must connect and expand their branding to cater to a global consumer, while also paying careful attention to those differences that continue to set consumer segments apart.

During this workshop, you will learn how to:

- Develop a comprehensive brand communication strategy
- Build trust and improve understanding with customers
- Communicate your brand premise
- Grow the value of your brands

Workshop B

LIVING THE BRAND PROMISE:
Aligning the Brand Promise with Employee Behaviors and Interaction
10:45 am – 12:45 pm

To succeed with your internal branding efforts emotions, feelings, and personal beliefs are openly communicated throughout the organization. During this session, senior branding and communication executives reveal how to give new meaning to your brands with employee involvement.

This interactive brainstorming session will teach you step-by-step processes to help you deliver the brand promise from the inside out, including how to:

- Define an internal brand that is authentic to the culture and supports the consumer brands
- Tell a story that is credible in a tight knit industry, while avoiding conventional approaches
- Inspire, challenge and empower employees to take it to the next level

GENERAL SESSIONS DAY 1, TUESDAY, MAY 6, 2014

8:00 am Registration, Continental Breakfast & Networking

8:45– Welcome and Opening Remarks

9:00am Lee Hornick, Conference Chairperson, ALI CONFERENCES

9:00 – Communicating and Ensuring Delivery of Your Brand

9:45am Promise: How to Create and Maintain Workforce Behaviors that Support Your Brand

Brands can be notoriously difficult to control. A brand promise, however, gives a company substantial leverage over the brand experience. It allows a business to set up customer expectations and generate excitement. During this session, you will gain insights into:

- Creating a brand promise
- Implementing the brand promise throughout the workplace
- Inspiring employees to deliver consistent, accurate and positive brand experiences
- Evaluating and measuring the success of your strategy

Bill White, Senior Vice President, Corporate Communications, SPRINT

9:45– Social Media Triage: How to Use it to Protect Your Brand

10:30am Today, the number of social media tools seems never ending. By the time you master some of them, others quickly arise.

As such, managing conversations on social media sites also becomes a never-ending challenge, particularly during a crisis.

In this session, you will learn about the Social Media Incident Command Center (SMICC), a hub where social media communicators can analyze social media conversations and help translate communication needs and wants from various target audiences into meaningful and effective messaging while protecting your organization's brand during a crisis.

Cindy Lawson, Vice President, Public Relations and Communications, DEPAUL UNIVERSITY

10:30– Morning Refreshment & Networking Break
10:45am

10:45– Engaging Advocates: Leveraging Your Customers and Key Influencers to be Your Most Powerful Marketing Tool by Developing an Influencer Marketing Plan

There is now no doubt that your consumers are your best marketers, online and offline, so companies are putting more money into word of mouth than ever before.

You will learn how the top brands in the world are driving results by leveraging key consumers or Influencers. You'll learn the attributes that make up an influencer and how to determine "potential to influence" versus "actual influence." You'll hear about the most effective ways to benchmark across different verticals.

This session will give you the keys to constructing an influencer plan to set your brand or product up for success in 2014, including:

- The attributes that make an influencer
- The different types of influencers and determine which work best for your brand
- How to measure influencer marketing effectiveness
- Examples from some of the world's most innovative influencer marketing strategies

Suzanne Fanning, President, WORD OF MOUTH MARKETING ASSOCIATION (WOMMA)

11:30am– Reputation Controls for a New World of Big Data and 12:15pm Masses of Content

The realities of big data and the ubiquity of content and conversation have changed the rules for corporate reputation management, shifting the onus for communicators to go beyond PR planning, and take a more operationally-focused role in precluding the disconnects with stakeholders that yield crises in the first place.

Today demands new approaches and controls, and this session will meet that challenge head-on with specific cases and recommendations to help you manage your corporate reputation management.

This session will teach you 4 key takeaways:

1. Clarify & address stakeholder assumptions
2. Define thresholds for company actions
3. Don't let PR distract you from real crises
4. Use financial metrics to make decisions

Jonathan Salem Baskin, Managing Director, CONSENSIV LLC, And columnist for ADVERTISING AGE and FORBES contributor, and serial author whose latest 8th book, "The End of Anonymity," will be published in June, 2014.

12:15– Lunch on your own but not alone! Reservations are 1:30pm booked!

Sign up at the registration table to join a small group for lunch with an informal discussion around a branding, communications or social media hot topic! Take this opportunity to meet new colleagues while getting answers to some of your biggest questions.

INTERACTIVE EXERCISE!

1:30– Corporate Brand, Communications & Social Media 2:00pm Challenges and Solutions: Benchmark with your Peers

In this exercise, attendees will break into groups around common areas of interest to brainstorm new ideas and discuss solutions to common challenges. All will be encouraged to contribute to the discussions.

GENERAL SESSIONS DAY 1, TUESDAY, MAY 6, 2014

2:00– 2:45pm Brand Extension Planning and Implementation: New Rules for Branding Success

To be successful, a brand must consistently provide quality and satisfaction; it must meaningfully distinguish itself from the competition to create customer preference; it must be relevant, convenient and easily accessible to its target audience; and it must appeal to their individual lifestyles, attitudes and beliefs. Therefore, it's critical that the messages you send about your brand be as predictable as the brand itself. Consistent and cohesive use of your name, logo and message points will present your organization in the same fashion to everyone.

During this session, you will hear how HP has used various approaches to:

- Build a meaningful brand extension strategy
- Brand an organization's future
- Connect your brand to your marketing efforts

Denise Nelson, Director of Marketing Strategy, Planning and Analytics, HEWLETT-PACKARD

2:45– 3:30pm Managing an Integrated, Multi-Dimensional Re-
Branding Rollout: A Case Study

Positioning itself to be successful in the consumer-oriented healthcare marketplace, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Florida began the journey of rebranding in 2011 with a major milestone of renaming the company, Florida Blue, in 2012.

As there are a large number of internal and external stakeholders required to be aligned with the change and new direction, the communication process has been marked by integrated efforts from corporate communications and marketing among others. This session will focus on:

- Why the company embarked on a re-branding journey after seven decades of successful history in the state
- How integrated communication has created alignment and internal ambassadors for the brand

Sharon Wamble-King, Senior Vice President, Enterprise Communications, FLORIDA BLUE

3:30– 3:45pm Afternoon Refreshment & Networking Break

3:45– 4:30pm Employee Branding: Mastering the Mindset of the Millennial Employee to Drive Better Business Results

In today's increasingly challenging environment, high competition for top candidates makes finding the best talent harder than ever. While organizations spend countless hours, financial resources and effort on social media tactics and job distribution, one of the best long-term strategies is to enhance the company's employment brand.

During this session, you will discover how to:

- Gain insight on the complexity of the job search in the digital age
- Understand behavioral trends driving millennial job candidates to increasingly use digital tools to evaluate companies and their brands
- Learn about the influence and usefulness of different search methods
- Strategize ways to make your own companies attractive to candidates that are using the latest digital tools to seek out potential employers

Kassandra Barnes, Practice Leader, Research Strategy, CAREERBUILDER

4:30– 5:15pm Measuring the Effectiveness of Your Brand
Communication

While the world may be getting smaller, the branding challenges clearly aren't. The pressures from intense competition and demanding customers are placing new pressures on brand performance, differentiation, and equity.

During this session, you will discover best practices from senior branding executives on how to:

- Deliver the brand promise to all stakeholders
- Influence the marketplace with your brand
- Create a unified, meaningful brand

Scott Davis, Chief Growth Officer, PROPHET
Kati Everett, Vice President of Marketing and PR, NOVANT HEALTH

5:15 pm– Networking Cocktail Reception – Please join us!

6:30 pm We invite you to join us for a drink to continue networking with conference attendees and speakers. Don't miss this chance to benchmark new ideas over complimentary drinks!

7:00 pm Dine Around Chicago: Reservations are Booked!

Sign up during the networking reception or during the day for dinner with a small group (dinner cost is on your own and separate checks will be requested.) Take advantage of Chicago's fine dining while you continue to network with your colleagues.

GENERAL SESSIONS DAY 2, WEDNESDAY, MAY 7, 2014

8:00am Continental Breakfast & Networking

8:30– Rethinking the Corporate and Brand Experience:

10:00am Achieving Business Success Throughout the Organization

A brand is a company's face to the world. A brand is also the promise and how the company is perceived by its customers, employees, investors, the media and various communities.

During this interactive panel session, senior marketing, branding, and communication executives discuss new ways to rethink the corporate and brand experience in the workplace and marketplace. You will hear practical ideas and advice for common challenges, including:

- Targeting customers, investors, employees (prospective and current), and those who affect a company's ability to do business in their brand-building efforts
- Anticipating a brand's future relevance
- Creating a customer experience that reinforces the brand across the multiple moments of truth that can make or break a brand
- Ensuring that employees are aligned with your brand promise
- Using digital media to achieve brand success

10:15– Chicago Tribune Media Group –How to Launch A New Brand Across A Changing Digital Landscape

Blue Sky Innovation is designed to inform, inspire and engage, bringing together an audience that looks at business—and life—in new ways. Whether striking out on their own, joining a small start-up or motivating teams within larger companies, these innovators all have this in common: they believe in the future, and in Chicago.

During this session, you will discover how to launch a new website, adapt to a changing digital landscape, and how to influence attitudes and behaviors.

Gerould Kern, Senior Vice President and Editor,
CHICAGO TRIBUNE

11:00– Strategic Brand Renewal: Innovating and Revitalizing Troubled Brands

Your company sets the directions of the brand. Your audience determines your actual brand image. Branding is an ongoing evolution of marketing, research and conversation. Take the time to listen long and hard at the conversations from your audience to understand their real impressions. If your audience has a different view of you than what you intend, then you need to rehabilitate and revitalize your brand. During this session, you will find out how leading organizations are revitalizing their product and service brands. Issues and trends will be covered include:

- Brand renewal in a social media landscape
- Giving your brand new meaning
- Reinventing the organization

Christopher Lehmann, General Manager and Executive Creative Director, LANDOR ASSOCIATES
